

Abstract of the Disclosure

A network receiver is configured for receiving a modulated carrier signal representing a data frame from a network transmitter via a network medium; the receiver includes an adaptive equalizer with a finite impulse response filter for 5 filtering the received signal. The filter utilizes a plurality filter coefficients. A cache stores a plurality of sets of coefficients for use by the filter and the equalizer selects a set of coefficients for receiving the data frame.

C:\154\MDS\AMDS\Final.Spec